

FEAR DISRUPTION FROM A BILL FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Promised "Co-operation" Between Two Parties May Not Materialize

THE WAGNER BILL

Blocked by Overwhelming Republican Majority in The House

By William K. Hutchinson
(L. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Wagner Employment Bill, which the Senate passed last spring but which was sidetracked by the House, today threatened to disrupt the promised "co-operation" between Republicans and Democrats at the coming "lame duck" session of Congress.

While seven nationally known Democratic chieftains pledged "co-operation" with the administration, other minority leaders have insisted that the Democrats stand pat on their own program for the relief of unemployment. The Wagner bill, sponsored by Robert F. Wagner (D) of New York, had the backing of Democrats and insurgents in the Senate but were blocked by the overwhelming Republican majority in the House.

One of the New Yorker's measures would set up a Federal unemployment fund by authorizing certain public works to be constructed during unemployment emergencies. It would ask the State governments to create like funds. This bill was emasculated in the House. Another Wagner bill would establish Federal employment agencies throughout the States, with an organization for reporting the employment in various sections. This bill has been pigeon-holed with a House committee.

A number of Democrat leaders will demand immediate action on both Wagner bills, when Congress meets, before they agree to aiding in enactment of administration measures. Unless the Republican leadership of the House changes its attitude toward the Wagner bills, the whole program of "co-operation" may be defeated before it gets under way.

Three administration unemployment measures however will get universal support, because they provide relief for every section of the country. They are:

The proposed $60,000,000 bill for loans to farmers for feed, seed, fertilizer and gasoline in the 21 drought-stricken States.

The proposed increase in appropriation to Federal aid roads, in which every State shares.

The proposed spending of the Federal building program, which authorizes new Federal buildings for about 40 States.

These three bills will run into little opposition. Indeed, the only contest may be to add projects or States to the list of beneficiaries, but when these are enacted, the administration will face a stiff battle over all other legislation unless the Wagner bills have been enacted. The Democrats, as a whole, will look upon the enactment of the New Yorker's bills as a test of the administration's good faith in accepting the Democratic pledge of "co-operation."

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP MAN PAINFULLY BURNED

Clifford Vansant is Burned When Gasoline Catches Fire in Pump Pit

ELECTRIC SPARK CAUSE

HULMEVILLE, Nov. 17.—Painful burns were sustained by Clifford Vansant, Middletown Township, when a spark from an electric pump set fire to a can of gasoline he was holding while repairing the pump Saturday.

The young man was working upon the motor in a pit at the home of his father, James M. Vansant, Hulmeville Road. An explosion occurred when the gasoline became ignited, and the young man's clothing burst into flames. His screams brought other members of the family, who extinguished the blaze and summoned a physician.

Mr. Vansant was burned about the face, neck and arms, the burns on the right arm being most severe. In his attempt to reach the top of the ladder that led out of the pit, the victim fell, and this added to his already severe pain.

The injuries have confined Mr. Vansant to bed at his parents' home.

TO ACCEPT INVITATION

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 17 (INS)—Desire by the King of Spain to view and inspect the flying boat DO-X, now awaiting its projected take-off for the south tomorrow, may cause a slight change in plans and take the giant airliner to San Sebastian, Spain, instead of directly to Lisbon, Portugal, it was announced today.

The decision was reached by Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of the ship, after he had been visited by a party of San Sebastian citizens, who presented a petition asking that the DO-X be landed in the Bay of Biscay near the royal palace.

Dr. Dornier informed the delegates that their invitation would be accepted if the Spanish monarchy expressed a desire to view the flying boat.

A stop was also planned at Corunna, Spain, from where the seabird would make its hop to Lisbon and from there await a final decision in regard to its projected cruise to New York.

French Air Ministry officials and newspapermen were scheduled today to visit the craft. Captain Friedrich Christiansen, master of the DO-X, held the ship in readiness to take his guests on a short flight over Bordeaux.

The DO-X has been fully refueled since its landing here from La Rochelle, where it was forced to put in port Friday night on its flight southward from Calshot, England, on account of descending darkness and fog.

Victim of a heart attack, Mrs. Laura deBinder Tomlinson, wife of Clerk of Orphans' Court Calvin Tomlinson, died very suddenly at her home on North Linden avenue, Newtown.

The deceased was a daughter of the late William H. and Elizabeth deBinder, who moved to Newtown fifty years ago from Pittsburgh. Mrs. Tomlinson had been active in the Episcopalian church and in the Newtown New Century Club.

She is survived by two daughters, Miss Sarah Tomlinson and Mrs. Herman Terry, of Newtown, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Miller and Mrs. E. L. Toland, of Philadelphia.

The Penn Shale Brick Company, at Huffnagle station resumed operations last week with the receipt of a big order from the General Building Materials Corporation, of which William Malcolm is also an officer and one of the receivers of the American Clay Products Co., New Hope, which is tied up in receivers court. The order he has turned over to the Penn Shale plant is for brick to build seven substations of the Reading Railroad in their electrification program.

The brick will be used at Lansdale, Jenkintown, Wayne Junction, Bala-Cynwyd, Neshaminy Falls, Ambler and Reading Terminal, Philadelphia. The games of "500" and pinochle will be played and table assignments will be made at 8:30 sharp.

The prizes offered for the selection of the successful contestants will be of the usual high standard and variety generally provided by this society of women.

A thirty-two piece dinner set, end table, glassware, table linens, embroidered linens, plants and many other articles are on the list.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of Mrs. Carl Winch, chairlady, assisted by Mrs. Warren Armstrong, Sr., and the Misses Marcella and Ellen McCaffery, Marguerite McFadden, Anna McCole, and Elizabeth Cunningham, and this group of ladies solicit the patronage of the public.

AMERICA LEADS

Another American industry which has not felt the pinch of the world-wide economic depression is that engaged in the manufacture of industrial machinery, which for several years has been benefitting from the rapid mechanization of industry abroad.

Exports of this type of machinery last year exceeded those of 1928 by 25 per cent. This year the increase has run 19 per cent over 1928.

Europe is adopting American mining and refining methods, equipping her factories with machinery for mass production and supplanting the pick and shovel with dredges, power shovels and mechanical excavators.

The United States has been the chief beneficiary from this industrial revolution abroad because it controls most of the patents and is far ahead of the rest of the world in the design and manufacture of mass-production and labor-saving machinery.

While we are helping Europe—by selling her this machinery—to produce more of her own goods, which must naturally be in competition with American-made manufactures, it is believed the new industrial methods will raise living standards and wages in Europe to a point where she will be able to greatly increase her American imports.

BIOGRAPHY GOING TO SEED

Gossip is the small change of social currency, and the world more often has 20 nickel anecdotes than a single dollar fact. This explains the charm of biography. Biography is an art, and a very fine art, when it is used to enlighten for posterity the methods, purposes and achievements of worthy leadership.

Biography, of late, has been going to seed. Never were personal confessions so plentiful, and certainly never in such bad taste. It seems that reticence is in decay, that privacy exists no longer for the diarist, and that the chief purpose of social intercourse is to collect full-flavored anecdotes for a gossip-book.

There is only justification for autobiography when the subject either has occupied a distinctive and influential position in public affairs or has been brought into intimate contact with those who have. The surprising thing about every, or almost every, current biography, is the tremendous amount of information each writer has about other people, and the very little information he has about himself. This may be modesty, and again it may be insignificance; we suspect the latter.

It is said the golden bait for anecdotal memories is very enticing—so enticing that every unwilling Johnson has his watchful Boswell, not always, however, weaving a halo but occasionally forging a pronged fork out of the malleable metal of scandal. When a biography is sought, it is sought with the expectation that there will be something quotable in the smoking room, or in other circles of similar seclusion. Nor is the practice of revelation confined to the dead, as in former age; today the living may wake up any morning and find the world laughing or whispering over the color of his shirts or his misadventures as an occasional Romeo.

(Equipped with motion picture cameras and sound recording apparatus, the Colorado African Expedition, headed by Charles, started a journey of exploration across equatorial Africa. A 400 mile trip by water up the Niger River and across country took by means of trunks. The expedition reached the heart of the Ituri Forest, the section inhabited by strange pygmies. Hoefler then set out to visit the unusual Ubangi River, where he found a lion. He took their places in the ring, and each, when he was near enough, crouched behind his shield. Spear in hand, his eager face gleaming over the rim, with shields held steady to protect the body and quivering spears poised for instant action, the men in front braced themselves for the shock of the on rushing charge. The lion watched them closely, unafraid and seemingly withholding her charge until they were ready. At length the tense ring was completed. It was a wild sight! The ring of spear-men, intent, silent, bent on blood and in the center a great man killing beast. The ring once formed could not be broken for the man who stepped back from the face of younger warriors would be sent out after the lions. Kaiga's father sadly awaited the outcome of the council. All of Kaiga's older kinsfolk, now past the prime of life, would gladly have joined the young warriors in the hunt, but that was impossible. The runner was sent to the hillside huts of the Masai El Moran, the lion-hunters. The honor of killing the king of beasts was reserved strictly for them. After a war dance, during which the chant of the lion was rendered, the Masai warriors advanced across a circle twelve miles in diameter. Lithe as panthers, with their great muscles rippling under their smooth dark skin, the warriors advanced.

Finally with a tremendous roar the lion charged. The coveted moment was at hand. The leader plunged the spear into the animal's breast. She struck him, he was down but his shield protected him. He got up once more. Not a man stepped back. A dozen spears were driven clear through the ferocious beast as her mate started out for revenge.

"Look out," yelled Charles, "there is another one."

Quick as lightning the spears were used again. This time upon the mate. As the lion fell to his death he fought at the spear.

With the death of the two kings of beasts, Kaiga was avenged. The whole thing was over in thirty seconds.

Five weeks later Hoefler and his companion Charles arrived at the Indian Ocean which represented the end of a memorable journey of 14,000 miles across the most interesting country of the whole world. As they caught the first glimpse of the sea Charles exclaimed "There it is, Paul!"

"It has taken us four months to get here," Hoefler replied, "but the old ocean sure looks good to me."

To which Charles added the retrain, "It has been a great adventure."

In small groups the spear men a charge was forever branded as a coward.

Legion Auxiliary Visits League Island Hospital

A trip to the naval hospital, League Island, Philadelphia, was planned and carried out by the members of the Auxiliary of the American Legion, their families and friends on Sunday.

The group left Bristol, via bus, from the Legion Home, at 12:30 p. m. and the party returned at 6:00 p. m.

The afternoon was spent in the entertainment of the patients of the hospital, three of whom are known locally, viz., Harold James, of Radcliffe street; Edwin Yates, of Bath Road, and Maurice Wade, of Pine street, all ex-service men.

There were a number of vocal solos given. Mrs. Ethel Ahart sang a minstrel song; Mrs. George Croner, Ruth Fechtenburg, of Eddington; Mrs.

Springtime in the Rockies"; Miss Bessie Rafferty, "Beside An Open Fireplace"; Miss Alice Rafferty, "Mighty Lak A Rose"; Mrs. Howard Johnson, "Telling It To the Daisies"; and the Misses Evelyn and Ruth Fechtenburg, "Whip-Poor-Will."

Music was furnished by three of the Cadets—Russell Unruh, drums; George Heaton, cornet; and Wallace Keeler, saxophone. Mrs. Walter Straus, of Tullytown, was the accompanist at the piano.

Mrs. Harold Dettmer, of Cornwells, and Mrs. Richard Fechtenburg, of Eddington, evoked many laughs with their black-faced sketch, "Hanging Out The Wash."

A number of the patients also rendered vocal solos, while other songs were sung in unison.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and candy, were provided by the visitors, while cigarettes, fifty decks of playing cards, and numerous magazines and books were left with the patients for their enjoyment afterward.

A box of flowers was also taken to John J. Wolfe, of Sellersville, a member of the 40 'n' 8 Soclete of Bucks County, who is also a patient in the hospital.

The party comprised: Mr. and Mrs. George Croner, Mrs. John Wichser, Miss Gertrude Wichser, Mrs. Ethel Ahart, the Misses Bessie, Alice and Sara Rafferty, Miss Catharine Waters, Mrs. Catharine McDonald, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Bella Downs, Mrs. Howard Johnson, Miss Anna Madden, Mrs. Maurice Wade and children, Mrs. Patrick Quigley, Mrs. Elizabeth Delker, Mrs. Wallace, Sr., Mrs. Howard Lynn, Mrs. C. J. Hetherington, Mrs. Tillie Brownlee, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Hetherington, Mrs. Roy Ott, Miss Emily Bracken, Mrs. Hazel Stewart, Russell Unruh and George Heaton, of Bristol; Mrs. James Mabery, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Straus, Mrs. Clifford White, Mrs. Mabel Carlen, Mrs. Lovett and Wallace Keeler, of Tullytown; Mrs. Victor Morgan, of Hightstown, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dettmer, of Cornwells; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fechtenburg and daughters, the Misses Evelyn and Ruth Fechtenburg, of Eddington; Mrs.

Mitchell and Mrs. Caleb T. Rue, of Edgely.

IS THE "BETTER-CLASS" CELLAR GOING DRY?

To the Editor of the Public Ledger:

Sir—What a change has come about in prohibition's sinister atmosphere! Where formerly it concerned mostly the lowly workingman, today it comes, according to current news topics, from a new group, the so-called "better" class of society.

Can it be possible that the supply of alcoholic beverages of pre-prohibition brand is dwindling in the homes of high society? The present-day clamor against prohibition would seem to show that they are down to the dregs of genuine stock, and must drink bootleg. The logic of this could be that prohibition is a far greater success than many of us thought.

WILLIAM ARMSTRONG.

Bristol A. A. Gains 9-6 Victory Over Tacony XI

The try for the extra point failed.

The second period opened with Satterthwaite kicking off to Schaffer, of Tacony, who after returning the pigskin 10 yards, was downed on his own 35 yard line. An exchange of punts finally gave Bristol possession of the ball on their own 30 yard line. The Blue and White then launched an offensive attack. With Dougherty and David bearing the brunt of the attack the ball was advanced from the Blue and White's 30 yard line to the Bulldogs' 20 yard marker. However, the visitors again refused to punt and Bristol was forced to kick. The remainder of the period was a punting duel with neither team having the advantage. The half ended with the ball in the neutral zone and Bristol's possession.

The third period was a slight repetition of the first with neither team scoring and the oval being mostly played in neutral territory.

However, the fourth period was the real eye opener of the game. An aerial attack was started by the Tacony eleven which terminated only after Bud David, of Bristol, had intercepted Eisenbray's pass to Seger and on a brilliant exhibition of broken field running had sliced off a nice gain of 60 yards. However, a grounded pass to Barrett by Trott gave the oval to the Tacony eleven on their own 20 yard line. Tacony immediately kicked and Dougherty, of Bristol, received. After advancing the oval 15 yards, Dougherty was downed on his own 20 yard line. Bristol received the benefit of a 15-yard penalty for piling. However, at this critical stage of the game, the visitors again refused to punt and the ball was retuned into their possession. Later in the period a long pass by Seger to Eisenbray, who ran 45 yards for a touchdown, scored Tacony's only tally, made during the entire game. Ties failed in the try for the extra point by missing the goal post by inches. The remainder of the period was a desperate rally to score on the part of the Tacony eleven which miserably failed.

Line-up:

Bristol A. A.	Tacony A. A.

Mystery Party Excites Interest of Young Folks

Miss Rita McGee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McGee, 633 Beaver street, was an unexpected hostess to a number of her friends on Saturday evening.

Last week invitations were sent out inviting the guests to a "Mystery Party," the destination of which was not mentioned. The meeting place was to be at Pond and Washington streets at eight o'clock and they would be met by a "Mystery Man" who would lead them to the party. Great excitement prevailed and curiosity ran high. Telephone calls were made and consultations held daily, but no knowledge could be gained, as to where the party was to be. Miss McGee also received one of these invitations and she was just as excited and interested as the guests were.

Mrs. McGee, who was responsible for these unique invitations, had talked to the various mothers, letting them in on the secret. Saturday night came and groups of two and threes were meeting here and there, and deciding whether or not they would go to the meeting place. Curiosity was too great and deciding to take a chance, they all met at Pond and Washington streets, and the "Mystery Man" was there. Everybody was placed in cars and taken for a ride all over town, and as they passed the homes of the various ones in the crowd, the question arose: "Is the party here?" Then they stopped at Hibernian Hall on Corsor street, thinking the party might be there, but no signs of a party at the hall. Then the "Mystery Man" suggested that they stop at Miss McGee's home and she willingly consented. After Miss McGee left the car, the "Mystery Man" gave the signal to the crowd that the McGee home was their destination. Everybody left the cars, entered the house and the party started. The "Mystery Man" who played his part so well, was William Walker.

The evening was spent singing, dancing and playing all kinds of games. Music for the dancing was furnished by the radio. During the evening a spot dance was held and Miss Eleanor Weik and Thomas Barrett were awarded prizes. The rooms were attractively decorated with Miss McGee's school colors, crimson and gold. At a late hour, refreshments were served, and enjoyed by everyone present. Each guest received as a favor, a paper hat.

Those who enjoyed the party were: Misses Rosemary Ward, Mary M. McGee, Katharine and Eleanor Weik, with Negroes gathered for a funeral Rita Barnfield, Jane McElroy, Katharine Sell, Alice Keating, Mary Joe McGee, Mary Lynn, Marie Lippincott, Mary Finney, Elizabeth Ellis, Mary Harton, Mary Roarty, Alice Gallagher, Katharine Oliver, Rita McGee, Mary DeL McGee, Mrs. Mildred Brady, Miss Mame Mulligan.

Raymond McGee, William Walker, James Robinson, Russell Marshall, Edward Keating, Thomas Gosline, James Neals, Larry Mulligan, Archer Dougherty, Leonard Bassett, Francis McGee, Joseph and Maurice Mulligan, Robert McCurry, Thomas Barrett, Walter Kelly, Joseph McDevitt, Jack McGinley, Leonard McGee, John Gallagher, Charles Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McGee, all of Bristol. Thomas Dolan, of New York City, and Edward McBride, of Germantown.

pants hurt. In Franklin county many houses, barns and rural buildings were smashed by the storm.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17—(INS)—Danger of a severe storm on Lake Michigan has been ended today as the forty-mile gale which yesterday swept the lake was subsiding.

Storm signals were broadcast over all the Great Lakes by the Radio Corporation of America station here. No disasters were reported here. During the severe wind the temperatures receded to 48 degrees.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17—(INS)—Armin A. Frankel, 60-year-old missing

Chestnut street merchant, was solved today by the discovery he had gone to join his sister in death. The manner of his passing was as mysterious as that of his sister, the former Mrs. Thomas Haskins Graham, a former opera singer of Stroudsburg. Police have termed both deaths suicides.
